It is easy to see that Paul Borda, master artist and creator of the statues and jewelry at Dryad Design, puts his heart and soul into his work. He combines the design and carving process with meditation and ritual followed by lots of research.

Dryad Design jewelry designs have evolved from the statues. Made of sterling silver, gold vermeil, copper, and bronze, the jewelry is designed by Borda and manufactured by Peter Stone.

Once created, each piece is blessed in circle and dedicated to the work of the Divine, continuing Borda and his wife, Suzanne's, devotion to Pagan religion and their commitment to bringing the presence of the Goddess into the world.

Whichever lines you carry, you will immediately recognize Borda's attention to detail. Choose from pendants, earrings, cuff bracelets, traditional bracelets, and rings (including poison rings and toe rings). A nice range of sizes is offered in all the pendant and bracelet designs, which will appeal to both men and women.

Designs include gods and goddesses from Celtic, Norse, and Sumerian mythology. Dryad Design has a complete collection of Pagan jewelry with more than 100 designs incorporating pentacles. They even offer assistance in choosing the best pieces for your store. Your biggest problem will be staying within your budget because you will want it all.
